About This Content

Joining two of the north of England's major cities, the Liverpool to Manchester route for Train Simulator features stunning stations and well known landmarks throughout.

The original route between the cities ran between Liverpool Central (High Level) Station and Manchester Central, and was opened in 1873 by the Cheshire Lines Committee. Although both stations have since been demolished and replaced by Liverpool Lime Street and Manchester Piccadilly, it still remains an important route for passenger and freight traffic.

The 40 mile route sees up to four passenger trains per hour in each direction with freight still operating on the route. Various light industrial sidings are also a feature, including well known landmarks such as Manchester International Freight Terminal, the River Mersey, Manchester Ship Canal and Liverpool Edge Hill. A total of 24 stations can also be found on the route, including Manchester Oxford Road, Warrington Central, Liverpool South Parkway and Widnes.

Included with the route is a Regional Railways Class 158 diesel multiple unit (DMU), built for British Rail between 1989 and 1992. The DMU was built to replace many locomotive-hauled passenger trains and had a top speed of 90mph (145 km/h).

This is quite a nice route, with great scenery overall, though it's very linear. You only get the diesel line between the two towns though, not the electrified line up north, which is quite unfortunate since you would be able to run a Pendolino or Desiro (diesel or electric) on it. However, DTG have done a nice job with the scenery on the existing line, so I can recommend this in a sale. Just get some AP products that go along with this, like the Class 158V159 (Cummins) EP or the Class 150V2 pack.. Stunning scenery that isn't taxing on your hardware, but the physics and sound effects of the included Class 158 are pretty poor. Fairly short route for passenger runs (45-60 mins depending on amount of stops) but there are railyards at both ends for freight runs.
